

The privacy of my home was always invaded by telemarketers day and night till the "do not call list" was developed. Now I can sit and eat and don't have to worry about picking up a phone and being abused by a computer or person trying to sell me something. If I wish to purchase something, I can go to the store or call the vendor.